

During the year 2019, Almarai Company implemented a formal assessment of the factors of material importance, during which it communicated with stakeholders at the internal and external levels of the company, with the aim of focusing on the most prominent social, environmental and governance aspects that are most important to its business. In 2022, the company completed monitoring and studying the priority aspects identified in the materiality assessment and other relevant issues to ensure their suitability, and the results are listed below. Our strategy is based on three interconnected pillars, in addition to 12 core issues that support our contribution to building a more sustainable future.
