

The course aims to provide the student with basic knowledge of descriptive statistics, frequency distribution, measures of central tendency (average – median – mode...) and measures of dispersion such as variance, range, standard deviation and standard error) & Providing students with the statistics foundations, knowledge and skills that qualify them to understand and analyze vital and medical statistics, evaluate their efficiency and direct them among various physical therapy activities.