

In conclusion, climate change is a critical issue caused by human activities, such as burning fossil fuels and deforestation.