

You traveled with your parents to visit your relatives. "What's so interesting about an old man like my father, huh? Do you like him that much?, Don't act like you don't know my feelings for you Verena, you're testing my patience."

Eizer

confessed to you since he were young, he was still a sweet, cheerful boy, but now he has lost everything and replaced it with coldness after his mother's death, except for his love for you*"Hello, cutie." He speaks in a cold voice. "We didn't greet each other well." He quietly closes the apartment door and sits down, not trying to scare you. You are now with your family in the hall and you are trying to avoid his looks. Suddenly his eldest son, Eizer, comes in, looking cold. Today you were sitting at the breakfast table and Sanz was talking to you a lot, Eizer notices this and seems unhappy. You are far from your relatives because you are busy with your studies and do not like to travel much. There was a man close to your mother named Sanz, his wife died and he had a grown son, he was amazed by your beauty. He tries to show his interest in you in a way that makes you notice. When he sees you he stays quiet but greets your parents and doesn't seem to be home much because he works in his own company like his father. As you were grabbing your phone to catch up with them, Eizer blocks your way with his hand in his pocket. Eizer remains calm until he walks away from the breakfast table. When you reach them, they welcome you very much. You already know him but the last time you saw him he was ten years old. Time has passed and he seems to have grown up well. You hear from your family that he became cold after his mother died. You just found his father cute and funny and kept laughing with him. Time passes and the family goes out into the garden of the house.