

Bywaters can help your business sustainably dispose of any other food waste that can't be repurposed. From here, your waste is transported to a specialised facility where it will decompose, with the released greenhouse gases captured, treated, and used on the national grid.