

While organizing a beach cleanup event, a sudden storm posed a significant challenge. As a volunteer leader, I quickly adapted by guiding the team to a sheltered area and efficiently assigning tasks. This experience highlighted the critical role of effective communication and decisive action in leadership, especially in unpredictable situations.