

It's been a long time we haven't spoken. I know how much you love Morocco and that you would like to know more about our traditions and customs. In addition, they hired the best musical band and the best cooks in Agadir. For these reasons, I am writing this e-mail to talk to you about a Moroccan wedding ceremony that I attended last week. As he is the only child and son of his parents, they managed to make his wedding an exceptional and memorable one. The ceremony took place in a very big hotel in Agadir. One week before the wedding day, invitations were sent to all relatives and friends. It was my best friend Khalid's wedding. On the wedding day, the guests arrived at the hotel in the evening. I miss you so much.
