

1-Experience Every workplace these days focuses on experience, and this is truly clear these days. First, communication helps the employee to expand his public relations, in addition when another employee comes from another company's there will be many chances for the employee to change his work. Secondly, communicating with other employees makes his work easier and flexible if he does not understand a point. First.