

In conclusion, vegan makeup products have strong potential for success in the Omani market due to the increasing awareness of beauty, skincare, and environmentally friendly products among consumers. Furthermore, the marketing mix strategies, including high product quality, reasonable prices, online selling platforms, and promotional activities, can help the business compete effectively in the market. The report showed that social media, technology, and changing customer preferences positively influence