

One day in elementary school, our teacher told us that homework was to find out the meaning of our names.