

It is calculating the cost of a product or service and adding a standard margin to the cost.