

My first day at college was a mixture of excitement and trepidation as I entered the busy campus. The atmosphere was lively with the chirping of freshmen, the laughter of the nearby cafe, and the sound of a brass band in the distance greeting us. With a map and a lesson plan in hand, I navigated the maze of buildings, each filled with possibilities.