

A lot of things can happen to the body when it slips or falls, and it can simply end up with a head injury, a broken hip, a sprained ankle, or some other injury that takes a toll on it. Unfortunately, people can slip and fall due to various reasons such as puddles of water, uneven stairs, or any other dangerous situation that can make you fall. Slips and falls can affect people differently, depending on what happens to your body and other factors, such as your age and general health.