

The bibliography is a key tool for work and reflection in scientific research.–It allows having an insight on the techniques and the strategies used to treat the different scientific questions, as it allows the comparison between the different results obtained by different researchers about a given question.– It allows synthesizing knowledge on a given scientific subject, which facilitates the understanding of scientific themes and allows their progression.