

Modern Amman is inhabited by a diverse group of residents of different origins who come from different regions, including those from nearby Jordanian cities, others from Palestine, and others from the Caucasus, Syria, and Iraq.