

Am I the target of cyberbullying? All friends joke about with one another, but it can be difficult to determine whether someone is joking or attempting to harm you, especially when it's done online. How can one distinguish between bullying and a joke?