

The sacrifice ratio is the number of percentage points of annual output that is lost in the process of reducing inflation by one percentage point.