There are possible sources of error when doing this experiment.Such as using a more accurate conductivity probe, more accurate pipets, and a more accurate titratorFirstly, failure to properly measure the volumes of used solutions may occur.Moreover, failure to titrate beyond the equivalence point.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com