

Possible ignition sources should not be allowed in areas where flammable materials are located. Personnel should be aware of hazardous areas and provisions available for isolating and removing fuel sources from these areas in case of fire.