

Calling and Texting Talking is the practice of communicating or exchanging thoughts and opinions through the use of phrases that are passed through utterances, also known as speech. With texting, however, the senders or recipients emotional standing is not seen.