Yes, she definitely left the audience with a clear sense of purpose. In her final message, she encouraged people to take Rabin's values and actually apply them in their own lives –– whether through promoting peace, being more responsible, or taking an active role in their community.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com