

2. With this potential, it is incumbent on NCI, as the world's largest supporter of cancer research, to consider and support the development of AI/ML technologies. NCI's role in AI research: current activities

Given these successes, it is clear that AI technologies hold immense promise to further improve the care of people with cancer and to facilitate cancer research.