

All organizations have policies and procedures that guide how decisions are made and how the work is done in that organization. Well written policies and procedures, increase organizational accountability and transparency and are fundamental to quality assurance and quality improvement programs. In the absence of written policies and procedures, unacceptably different approaches which make the organization inconsistent and inefficient can develop.