

These accidental discoveries have led to some of the most important and useful inventions in history