

We then identify the enabling technologies for the introduced 6G services and outline a comprehensive research agenda that leverages those technologies.