

Elements make up everything in the world. We group elements into nine official groups.