

The novel revolves around the development of individual identity and the quest for artistic self-realization amidst the pressures of society, religion, and tradition.