

When her two daughters, after identifying as Michael's some clothes found on a drowned body, inform her of Michael's death, she recites the list of the others' deaths and the circumstances. As she is being persuaded that he is dead, villagers enter to announce the death of her last son, Bartley, who was knocked into the sea by his pony