

my ambition in life is to be a volunteer doctor and travel to poor countries with a team to help others. there are so many people in poor countries suffering in their life and do not have access to hospitals not medications. I want to be able to help these kind of people and make their life better because they deserve it