

In life, we make both good and bad decisions that affect our experiences. However Once, I didn't study for a key test and got a low grade. For example, going to college was a good decision that helped me find a good job. This taught me to manage my time better