

I once received a call from a customer who was facing slowness issue he was very angry and threatening to cancel . I listened to him speaking and yelling at the same time i was looking up for the problem to give him the results and feed back of what the problem is and what we can do to solve it at the call and i will make the concerned team to follow up with you Once he calm down we did troubleshooting and problem was solved