

Empowerment ●recognizing and releasing into the organization the power that people already have in their wealth of useful knowledge, experience, and internal motivation.