

Several years ago, we experienced a frightening incident that could have ended in disaster if it weren't for the protection we believe we received from a higher power.