

Shark is one of the most famous and interesting marine creatures. Sharks live in all oceans and are considered apex predators in the marine ecosystem. Despite their reputation as dangerous creatures, many species of sharks are threatened with extinction due to overfishing and habitat destruction. Therefore, it is important to work on protecting these amazing creatures and preserving their marine environment.