

However, it relies on the existence of pollinators that will travel from plant to plant.