

From the study of previous research on renewable energy and wind turbines Characteristics of wind energy The research dealt with explaining the basic principle of generating energy using wind turbines.Designing buildings to improve airflow using advanced technologies.Integration with solar energy and hybrid energy systems The role of hybrid systems in improving energy efficiency and reducing dependence on traditional networks.Development of integrated systems for airflow analysis using tools such as Rhino and CFD.