

Milk fresh from the cow is virtually a sterile product. All post-milking handling must maintain the milk's nutritional value and prevent deterioration caused by numerous physical and biological factors. ?