

They enjoy organizing and managing information, explaining concepts and describing processes. o Many technical communicators enjoy the challenge of communicating information.