

This connection helps people feel understood and accepted, which contributes to long-term happiness.