First of all it gives businesses to get customer satisfaction feedback on the products and services prior to making a large investment in mass production or extensive distribution to a national market, directly from actual consumers.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com