

Milton is considered the greatest English poet. Abraham Callaway is considered a central figure among metaphysical poets. The poets of the royal court can be classified into two categories, secular and religious.