

The movement of a person or people from one country, locality, place of residence, etc., to settle in another; an instance of this.