

Boys who watched more television were more likely to develop negative stereotypes of overweight girls.