

In ancient Egyptian architecture, it is an open courtyard in the middle and roofed on both sides by a row of columns.