

Ancient Egyptian civilization or civilization of ancient Egypt is one of the most secure and developed societies in the world that existed for over three thousand years. This civilization was equally developed in the fields of mathematics, medicine as well as literacy evidenced by hieroglyphics and heightened calendar systems. They built a great society known for major architectural achievements such as the pyramid construction, which were awe-inspiring tombs for pharaohs, showcasing their sophisticated engineering capabilities and strong religious expertise.