The study's conclusions show that job training is essential for improving worker performance in Oman's private businesses. Investing in organized and pertinent training programs becomes crucial for preserving competitiveness and raising service quality as Oman's private sector grows and diversifies.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com