

The impacts of climate change are being observed globally, with rising temperatures affecting ecosystems worldwide. Coastal ecosystems, in particular, are vulnerable to these changes.