But on the other hand, the leading phones from Samsung are also considered high in price, specifically the S series of phones as well as the Z foldable phones, which come at astronomical prices. But what truly distinguishes Samsung from Apple is that Samsung offers many phones in various price categories, including the economic category and the premium category. Medium range, allowing users to freely choose the phones that suit them, unlike Apple, which only offers expensive Flagship phones

Summarized by © lakhasly.com