

1. Under tensile loads, concrete tends to crack, while the reinforcement helps resist the tensile forces and prevents excessive cracking or failure.