

The diagnostic and therapeutic approaches to patients with acute upper gastrointestinal bleeding have been improved during the last decades.